Russia agrees to extend grain deal

AP ■ ANKARA

Russia agreed to extend a deal that has allowed Ukraine to ship grain through the Black Sea to parts of the world struggling with hunger, Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan announced Wednesday, a boost to global food security after the war launched more than a year ago drove up prices.

"I want to give a good news," Erdogan said. "With the efforts of our country, the support of our Russian friends and the contribution of our Ukrainian friends, the Black Sea Grain Initiative has been extended by another two months."

The breakthrough accord that the UN and Türkiye brokered with the warring sides last summer came with a separate agreement to facilitate shipments of Russian food and fertilizer that Moscow insists hasn't been applied.

Russia had set a Thursday deadline for its concerns to be ironed out or had threatened to bow out. Such brinkmanship isn't new: With a similar extension in the balance in March, Russia unilaterally decided to renew the deal for just 60 days instead of the 120 days outlined in the agreement.

Extending the Black Sea Grain Initiative is a win for countries in Africa, the Middle East and parts of Asia that rely on Ukrainian wheat, barley, vegetable oil and other affordable food products, especially as drought takes a toll. The deal helped lower prices of food commodities like wheat over the last year, but that relief has not reached kitchen tables.

In talks last week in Istanbul, Ukrainian Deputy Prime Minister Oleksandr Kubrakov said the grain deal "should be extended for a longer period of time and expanded" to "give predictability and confidence" to markets.

Moscow has said it opposed such an expansion, then opted for another shorter extension.

Russia, meanwhile, is rapidly shipping a bumper harvest of its wheat through other ports.

Critics say that suggests Moscow is posturing or trying to wrest concessions in other areas — such as on Western sanctions — and claim it's dragged its heels on joint inspections of ships by Russian, Ukrainian, UN and Turkish officials. Average daily inspections — meant to ensure vessels carry only food and not weapons that could aid either side — have steadily dropped from a peak of 10.6 in October to 3.2 last month. Shipments of Ukrainian grain also have declined in recent weeks.

Russia denies slowing the work and was seeking five things to extend the deal, according to its ambassador in Geneva, Gennady Gatilov:

— A restoration of foreign supplies of farm machinery and replacement parts.

— A lifting of restrictions on insurance and access to foreign ports for Russian ships and cargo.

— Resumed operation of a pipeline that sends Russian ammonia, a key ingredient in fertilizer, to a Ukrainian Black Sea port.

— An end to restrictions on financial activities linked to Russia's fertilizer companies.

— Renewed access to the international SWIFT banking system for the Russian Agricultural Bank.

It wasn't immediately clear if any of those concessions were made, but they mainly rest with the private sector.

The deal has allowed over 30 million metric tons of Ukrainian grain to be shipped, with more than half that going to developing nations. China, Spain and Türkiye are the biggest recipients, and Russia says that shows food isn't going to the poorest countries.

UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres says Ukrainian corn for animal feed has headed to developed countries, while "a majority" of grain for people to eat has gone to emerging economies.

Even if a "meaningful part" of the shipments headed to developed nations, that "has a positive impact to all countries because it brings prices down," Guterres told reporters in Nairobi, Kenya, this month. "And when you bring prices down, everybody benefits." William Osnato, a senior research analyst at agricultural data and analytics firm Gro Intelligence, said there had been "bluster" coming from Russia to push for easing some sanctions because it's shipping record amounts of wheat for the season, and its fertilizers are flowing well, too.

Trade flows tracked by financial data provider Refinitiv show that Russia exported just over 4 million tons of wheat in April, the highest volume for the month in five years, following record or near-record highs in several previous months.

Exports since last July reached 32.2 million tons, 34 per cent above the same period from last season, according to Refinitiv. It estimates Russia will ship 44 million tons of wheat in 2022-2023. With Ukraine's wheat harvest coming up in June and the need to sell that crop in July, maintaining a Black Sea shipping corridor is key to avoid "taking another large chunk of wheat and other grains off the market," Osnato said.

Ukraine also can send its food by land through Europe, but those routes have a lower capacity than sea shipments and have stirred disunity in the European Union.

Russia freezes bank accounts of Finland's diplomatic missions

AP ■ HELSINKI

Russia has frozen the bank accounts of Finland's diplomatic representations in Moscow and St. Petersburg, disrupting money flow and forcing the country's missions to resort to cash payments, the Finnish foreign minister said Wednesday. Pekka Haavisto said Moscow's move at the end of April breaches the Vienna Convention on Diplomatic Relations and Helsinki has delivered a diplomatic note on the matter to Russia. "We're not alone with the money traffic problem," Haavisto told reporters during a news conference. "Also some other European Union nations have encountered problems with money traffic in Russia. But according to our information, restrictions on Finland are among the tightest."

He said Moscow's measure affects, among other things, payment of rents, electricity and water bills by the Finnish Embassy in Moscow and the Consulate General in

Russia orders arrest of director who criticised Ukraine war

Tallinn (Estonia) (AP): A Moscow court has ordered the arrest of prominent film producer Alexander Rodnyansky and theatre director Ivan Vyrypaev for "spreading false information" about the Russian army.

The initial court hearings against Rodnyansky and Vyrypaev were held on 27 April, but not reported by the court until Wednesday. According to the court's press service, Rodnyansky and Vyrypaev, who are outside Russia, will be placed in custody once Russian authorities manage to detain them or to get them extradited.

Russia's Interior Ministry additionally put Vyrypaev on the federal wanted list.

Kyiv-born Rodnyansky has been among the most influential figures in Russian cinema in recent decades.

St. Petersburg, which now have to rely on their cash assets. The move does not, however, affect salary payments to staff and there is no risk of a closure of Finland's diplomatic missions in Russia, Haavisto said. Earlier this year, Finland temporarily closed its diplomatic missions in the Russian Arctic city of Murmansk and the city of Petrozavodsk in the Karelia region — both not far from the Finnish border. Haavisto — the caretaker foreign minister — as the new Finnish government is currently under formation — stressed that current EU sanctions on Moscow aren't directed at Russia's embassies and consulates and Helsinki hasn't frozen the bank accounts of Russia's diplomatic missions in Finland.

G-7 leaders likely to focus on tensions in Asia at summit

AP ■ HIROSHIMA

The symbolism will be palpable when leaders of the world's rich democracies sit down in Hiroshima, a city whose name evokes the tragedy of war, to tackle a host of challenges including Russia's invasion of Ukraine and rising tensions in Asia. The attention on the war in Europe comes just days after Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy completed a whirlwind trip to meet many of the Group of Seven leaders now heading to Japan for the summit starting Friday. That tour was aimed at adding to his country's weapons stockpile and building political support ahead of a widely anticipated counteroffensive to reclaim lands occupied by Moscow's forces. "Ukraine has driven this sense of common purpose" for the G-7, said Matthew P. Goodman, senior vice president for economics at the Center for Strategic and International Studies. He said the new commitments Zelenskyy received just ahead

China claims the self-governing island as its own and regularly sends ships and warplanes near it.

Japanese Prime Minister Fumio Kishida also hopes to highlight the risks of nuclear proliferation during the meeting in Hiroshima, the site of the world's first atomic bombing. The prospect of another nuclear attack has been crystallized by nearby North Korea's nuclear program and spate of recent missile tests, and Russia's threats to use nuclear weapons in its war in Ukraine. China, meanwhile, is rapidly expanding its nuclear arsenal from an estimated 400 warheads today to 1,500 by 2035, according to Pentagon estimates. Concerns about the strength of the global economy, rising prices and the debt limit crisis in the US will be high on leaders' minds. G-7 finance ministers and central bank chiefs meeting ahead of the summit pledged to enforce sanctions against Russia, tackle rising inflation, bolster financial systems and help countries burdened by heavy debts.

of the summit could push members of the bloc to step up their support even further. "There's a kind of peer pressure that develops in forums like this," he explained.

G-7 leaders are also girding for the possibility of renewed conflict in Asia as relations with China deteriorate. They are increasingly concerned, among other things, about what they see as Beijing's growing assertiveness, and fear that China could try to seize Taiwan by force, sparking a wider conflict.

N Korea shows Kim Jong examining a military spy satellite

Seoul (AP): North Korean leader Kim Jong Un examined a finished military spy satellite, which his country is expected to launch soon, during a visit to an aerospace facility where he described space-based reconnaissance as crucial for countering the US and South Korea.

Kim during Tuesday's visit approved an unspecified "future action plan" in preparations for launching the satellite, North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency said on Wednesday. North Korea hasn't disclosed a target date for the launch, which some analysts say may be in the next few weeks.

That launch would use long-range missile technology banned by past UN Security Council resolutions, although previous missile and rockets tests have demonstrated North Korea's ability to deliver a satellite into space.

There are more questions, however, about the satellite's capability. Some South Korean analysts say the satellite shown in North Korean state media photos appears too small and crudely designed to support high-resolution imagery. Photos that North Korean media released from past missile launches were low-resolution.

Photos released by the Rodong Sinmun newspaper of Tuesday's visit showed Kim and his daughter — dressed in white lab coats — talking with scientists near an object that looked like the main component of a satellite. The newspaper did not identify the object, which was surrounded by a perimeter of red tape.

KCNA said the satellite was deemed ready to be loaded onto a rocket after scientists examined the device's assembly and put it through tests to confirm whether it would withstand the environment of space.

South Korea's Foreign Ministry said North Korea has yet to inform international maritime and telecommunication authorities of any launch plans. It said a North Korean satellite launch would violate various UN Security Council resolutions banning the North from any launches involving ballistic technologies and "threaten regional peace and stability."

"The announcing of the satellite launch plan shows yet again that the North Korean regime is preoccupied with continuing its illegal provocations while ignoring the plight of its people," the ministry said in a statement, in referring to North Korea's broken economy and deepening international isolation. The visit was Kim's first public appearance in about a month, following a previous visit to the aerospace centre on April 18 as state media announced that the satellite had been built.

Kim said acquiring a spy satellite would be crucial for his efforts to bolster the country's defence as "US imperialists and (South) Korean puppet villains escalate their confrontational moves" against the North, KCNA said.

The next step in North Korea's launch preparations, or the "future action plan" state media mentioned, could be installing the satellite on what would likely be a three-stage space rocket, said Kim Dong-yub, a professor at Seoul's University of North Korean Studies.

Key Trump attorney departing legal team

Washington: A key lawyer for former President Donald Trump said Wednesday that he was leaving the legal team, a move that comes as a special counsel investigation into the retention of classified documents shows signs of being in its final stages.

Timothy Parlatore told The Associated Press that his departure had nothing to do with Trump and was not a reflection on his view of the Justice Department's investigation, which he has long called misguided and overly aggressive, or on the strength of the government's evidence. He said he believed he had served Trump well.

Other lawyers, including former Justice Department prosecutor James Trusty, are continuing to represent Trump in Washington investigations.

CNN earlier reported Parlatore's departure. Parlatore has long been a key member of the team representing Trump in an investigation by Justice Department special counsel Jack Smith into the possession of hundreds of classified documents at the former president's Florida home, Mar-a-Lago as well as into possible efforts to obstruct that probe.

A grand jury over the last several months has heard from a broad array of witnesses close to Trump. Federal prosecutors in March questioned another of Trump's lawyers, M. Evan Corcoran, before the grand jury after successfully piercing attorney-client privilege.

Parlatore testified voluntarily in December about efforts to recover classified documents in response to government demands.

Last month, Parlatore and other lawyers for Trump issued a letter to the chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, Rep. Mike Turner, laying out a series of defence arguments of Trump and saying that the Justice Department should be "ordered to stand down" in its investigation. AP

Global Teacher Prize winner calls on Indian teachers to apply for 2023 edition

London (PTI): Ranjitsinh Disale, the winner of the USD 1 million Global Teacher Prize, on Wednesday called on inspiring Indian teachers to apply for the 2023 edition of the annual prize, which celebrates innovative and impactful teaching achievements worldwide.

The winner of the 2020 edition of the prestigious prize also called on parents and pupils to nominate their life-changing educators for the renowned accolade.

Disale was recognised for his work in transforming the life chances of young girls at the Zilla Parishad Primary School in Paritewadi village of Maharashtra.

Since winning the prize, he has gone on to meet prominent policymakers and advise the World Bank. "India has one of the world's most youthful populations and is therefore set to play a huge role in shaping the world," he said.

"Our country's inspiring teachers are integral to nurturing the next generation of visionaries. That is why I encourage them to apply for the Global Teacher Prize 2023 and call on parents and pupils to nominate the great educators in their lives. They deserve to have their stories heard, and for the world to know about all that they have accomplished," he said in a statement.

Now in its eighth year, the prize is open to working teachers in every kind of school who spend at least 10 hours per week teaching and plan to remain in the profession for the next five years.

"The Global Teacher Prize was launched to highlight the importance of education in tackling the great challenges ahead — from climate change to growing inequality to global pandemics," said Kerala-born Sunny Varkey, Founder of the Global Teacher Prize and Chairman of the Varkey Foundation.

"I urge inspiring teachers all around the world to apply for this year's edition," Varkey said.

The Global Teacher Prize 2023 is organised in collaboration with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO) and in strategic partnership with UAE-based global philanthropic organisation Dubai Cares.

'Africa's Sahel region needs help to fight extremism and stop its spread'

AP ■ UNITED NATIONS

Africa's Sahel region has become a hot spot for violent extremism, but the joint force set up in 2014 to combat groups linked to the Islamic State, al-Qaida and others has failed to stop their inroads, and a senior UN official warned on Tuesday that without greater international support and regional cooperation the instability will expand toward West Africa coastal countries.

"Resolute advances in the fight against terrorism, violent extremism and organized crime in the Sahel desperately need to be made," UN Assistant Secretary-General for Africa Martha Pobebe told a UN Security Council meeting.

The counterterrorism force, now comprised of Burkina Faso, Chad, Mauritania and Niger, lost Mali a year ago when its ruling junta decided to pull out. Pobebe said the force hasn't conducted any major military operations since January.

She said the force is adjusting to new realities: France moving its counterterrorism force from Mali to Niger due to tensions with the junta and Mali's decision to allow Russian mercenaries from Wagner to deploy on its territory.

She said Burkina Faso and Niger have recently strengthened military cooperation with Mali to counter an upsurge in extremist attacks, but "despite these efforts, insecurity in the tri-border area continues to grow".

Pobebe criticised the international community, saying a lack of consensus among donors and partners left the joint force without sufficient funding and other needed support to become fully operational and autonomous so it could have "the capacity to help stabilise the Sahel region".

An agreement between the UN, EU and the force under which the UN peacekeeping force in Mali supplied fuel, rations, medical evacuation and engineering support to the joint force is expected to end in June, she said, expressing hope that the Security Council will consider the issue of UN financing for Africa peace operations.

Eric Tiare, executive secretary of the force known as the G5 Sahel, said experts have finalised a new concept of operations, which will be submitted to its defence council and then to the African Union to be endorsed. "Given that the Sahel is at a crossroads, as it is seeing many threats to international peace and security, it's absolutely vital that we provide support to the force," he said.

"The force needs what it has always lacked and what it has always sought.

That is sustainable funding and equipment as we seek to counter terrorism."

UN experts have reported in recent years that Africa has been the region hardest hit by terrorism, and UN counterterrorism chief Vladimir Voronkov told the Security Council in January that the Islamic State group's expansion in Africa's centre, south and Sahel regions is "particularly worrying".

Last August, African security expert Martin Ewi said at least 20 African countries were directly experiencing activity by the Islamic State group, and more than 20 others were "being used for logistics and to mobilise funds and other resources". Ewi, who coordinates a transnational organized crime project at the Institute for Security Studies in South Africa's capital, Pretoria, told the Security Council that the Islamic State threat was growing by the day in Africa and the continent could be "the future of the caliphate", which is what the Islamic State called the large swath of Syria and Iraq it seized in 2014 but lost in 2017.

बार एसोसिएशन की आपात बैठक, अधिवक्ता बोले- जिला पुलिस का काम तानाशाही वाला

पयनियर समाचार सेवा। गाजियाबाद

गाजियाबाद में बार एसोसिएशन के बैनर तले वकील तीसरे दिन यानी बुधवार को भी हड़ताल पर हैं। पुलिस ने उनके जिस साथी पवन त्यागी को जेल भेजा था, उनकी रिहाई हो गई है। लेकिन अब वकीलों की नई मांग शुरू कर दी है।

वकीलों क कहना है कि पुलिस 151 शांतिभंग में पकड़े जाने वाले ज्यादातर लोगों को सीधे जेल भेज रही है, जबकि पहले वे कोर्ट में पेश होते ही जमानत पर छूट जाते थे। बार एसोसिएशन की आपात बैठक बुधवार सुबह अध्यक्ष योगेश कोशिक राजू की अध्यक्षता में हुई। बैठक में चर्चा हुई कि निवाड़ी थाना पुलिस ने उनके साथी अधिवक्ता पवन त्यागी को सुरक्षा में 151 में जेल भेजा। बाद में पवन और कुछ लोगों पर गंभीर धाराओं में केस दर्ज कर लिया

गया। ये पुलिस की हठधर्मिता और तानाशाही को दर्शाता है। वकीलों ने मंगलवार को इसे लेकर दिनभर प्रोटेस्ट किया। आखिरकार पुलिस को बैकफुट पर आना पड़ा। कोर्ट ने पवन त्यागी का रिलीज ऑर्डर जारी किया। उसे हाथोहाथ जेल पहुंचाया गया और फिर पवन त्यागी की रिहाई कराई गई। इसके बाद ही प्रोटेस्ट खत्म हो

पाया। बार एसोसिएशन सचिव नितिन यादव ने कहा, जब से गाजियाबाद में पुलिस कमिश्नरीट सिस्टम लागू हुआ है, तब से वकीलों पर ज्यादातर गंभीर धाराओं में केस दर्ज कर लिए जा रहे हैं। जबकि इससे पहले इन लोगों

को कोर्ट में पेश होते ही जमानत मिल जाती थी। सचिव ने कहा कि सीआरपीसी 151 में पकड़े जाने का मतलब ही ये होता है कि मामला बहुत गंभीर नहीं है। ऐसे में पुलिस कोर्ट को अपनी पांवर का दुरुपयोग नहीं करना चाहिए। सचिव ने कहा कि आज इसे लेकर करीब चार हजार से ज्यादा वकील हड़ताल पर रहेंगे।
